THE PLEASURE OF RAIN

The house, the only one in the whole valley, sat on the crest of a low hill. From this height one could see the river and the field of ripe corn dotted with flowers that always promised a good harvest.

The only thing the earth needed was a downpour or at least a shower. Throughout the morning Lencho had done nothing else but look at the sky towards the northeast. 'Now we're really going to get some rain, woman,' he said.

The woman, who was preparing supper, replied, 'Yes, God willing.'

During the meal, big drops of rain began to fall. Huge mountains of clouds could be seen approaching. The air was fresh and sweet.

Lencho went out to have the pleasure of feeling the rain on his body. 'These aren't raindrops falling from the sky, they are like new coins. The big drops are tens and the little ones are fives...'
